

Murder, She Didn't Write trailer transcript

[Audio: upbeat instrumental music throughout]

Text on screen appears that reads 'Don your stalker'. As an animation of a detective hat is shown on screen as it falls down the screen.

Text appears on screen that reads 'Grab your magnifying glass'. As an animation of a magnifying glass hovers over the text.

Text appears on screen that reads 'And get your 'finger of suspicion' at the ready for' With an animation of a finger pointing.

The show artwork appears on screen with text that reads 'Murder, She Didn't Write. The Improvised Murder Mystery' and a spotlight shines across all the characters in the artwork before it zooms out and becomes a magnifying glass hovering over the characters.

Text on screen appears 'Where the audience chooses' with text underneath that scrolls through different options such as 'the event, the victim, the vital clue'.

We then see a machine show lots of different situations and scenarios. It flicks between many before landing on three different ones. 'Dr Blue', 'crushed to death' and 'At an ice cream tasting'. The same thing repeats, and it lands on 'Professor violet', 'exploded by a cannon', 'at a love island recoupling'.

We then see an image of some outdoor furniture with a burning fire in front of it. A cannon faces the furniture. We hear a scream in the background.

Three reviews with five stars appear on screen. 'Scottish Daily Mail', 'Voicemag', 'North West End'.

The show artwork appears on screen, with the cast pictured to the right and text to the left that reads 'Murder, She Didn't Write. The improvised murder mystery.' A review appears above the title with five stars 'Scottish Daily Mail' and another underneath with five stars 'North West End'. Text at the bottom of the screen reads 'UK tour now on sale'.

ends