

The Fairey Band: Pictures at an Exhibition video transcript

[Audio: a powerful and orchestral piece of music plays in the background throughout the video]

The video starts with an animation of what appears to be a giant animal with chicken's feet walking through a forest. The logo for the KNDS Fairey Band is shown in the centre of the footage.

The footage then cuts abruptly to a black background with the word 'presents' written in all capital letters.

The video then shows a sandy like background with two sets of black shapes, almost like eyes and a mouth, move before another cut to a black background showing 'Mussorgsky's' again written in all capital letters.

The next clip shows an aerial view illustrating six chickens walking towards an ornament shaped like an egg in the centre of a circle. A further cut to a black background shows 'pictures' written in all capital letters.

The video cuts to illustrations of two bulls pulling ropes before the footage cuts to a black background with the word 'at' and then 'an' in capital letters.

The next clip shows the top of a carousel with red lights spinning in three different places as the word 'exhibition' appears in all capital letters. 'Exhibition' continues to be visible, but the footage behind this changes to show a silhouette of a house walking through a forest. The footage pans out to reveal the wider forest and that the house has chicken legs. The house continues to move through as the shot of the forest gets wider.

The words 'brought to life' appear in the foreground in all capital letters and the background fades to black with the words still visible. The words fade out ahead of 'in film' in all capital letters fading in.

The words 'in film' continue to be visible as animated footage of the house with chicken legs appears once more. The house continues to move through the forest as the footage shows its feet stamping on the floor. Lightning then appears as the background colour changes to show the forest with a yellow background, before reverting back to blues and pinks.

The footage cuts to a still graphic with four rows. The top row contains imagery of buildings with fireworks around them. The second is a black and white illustration of people carrying scythes uphill. The third row shows people walking in different directions. These are photos with a black and white effect and there are coloured shapes in the background. The bottom row has gold light shining through black to show paintings and people viewing these in what looks like an art gallery. The KNDS Fairey Band logo appears once more in the centre of the image.
