

Wilko: Love and Death and Rock 'n' Roll: Trailer

[Audio: Route 66 by Buddy Holly is performed throughout the video]

Actor Johnson Willis playing Wilko Johnson can be seen on stage with his band in the background.

Cuts to the crowd dancing in the foreground.

[Text: Theatre News, five stars. An incredible night out.]

Johnson performs the harmonica and sings throughout the clip as people clap and dance around him.

[Text: Daily Mirror, four stars. Gloriously raw...superbly played...They do it right.]

The video cuts a female dancer, before a quick cut to another female dancer as a guitarist moves into shot. A further close-up shows another guitarist ahead of a wide shot of Johnson and the band on stage as audiences applaud.

[Audio: Johnson: Well, it goes through St Louis, Joplin, Missouri, Oklahoma City, looks oh so pretty.]

[Text: Reviews Hub, four stars. An extraordinary story - magnificent.]

[Audio: You'll see Amarillo and Gallup, New Mexico, Flagstaff Arizona, don't forget Winona, Kingsman, Barstow, San Bernadino.]

A view from the side of stage shows Johnson sing to the crowd with his band visible in the background. The video cuts to a close-up of the guitarist before showing a female dancer as the band continues to perform.

[Text: The Spy In The Stalls, four stars. Powerful and compelling...a celebration.]

The video shows a close-up of Johnson ahead of cutting to a wide shot of Johnson singing on stage with his band in the background.

[Text: Broadway World, four stars. A never-ending supply of kinetic charisma.]

The camera pans forward showing the back of a crowd member dancing as Johnson continues to perform on stage. A female guitarist is next to him.

[Audio: Won't you get hip to this kindly tip Jack, and take a California trip.]

[Text: Guardian. A stonking star turn... Johnson Willis is magnificent.]

The video cuts to closeup shots of Johnson as a female dancer continues to dance next to him.

ENDS